MAYNE REID'S HUNTING and TRAPPING THE HUNTER'S FEAST; Or. CONVERSATIONS AROUND THE CAMP-FIRE.

BY CAFT. MAYNE REID, Author of "The Rifle Rangers," "The Scalp Hunters," etc. thrilling and yet truthful narrative of the stirring and perilous jife of a Trapper, as does the deeply interesting and instructive well known to the American reader through the medium of his "Rifle Rangers," &c., has most admirably blended instruction with amusement; for while "Ike, the Wolf-Killer," cheers the Camp-Fire with his never-failing anecdotes, the Hunter-Natur aligt takes every occasion to inform the delighted auditors of the habits, haunts and characteristics of the animal under discus eion; and this he dees in a manner which cannot fail to fix the oformation in the memory of the reader.

FROM THE COURANT, HARTFORD.

"Capt. Reid is a favorite author of ours. It is style is always sprightly, his descriptions graphic, and his narrative condensed and straking. This work is one of his best. It is one of the most vivid pictures of a Western hunter's life that we have ever seen he knows how to seize upon the peculiarities of any scene, or situation, or incident, and serve them up in the most piquant style for the straiffication of his readers."

From The Herrich S.T. Lours, Mo.

"In all our experience we have never met with a book which gives such vivid and soul-stirring pictures of the wonderful and terrible adventures of a Western hunter and trapper's life."

The author is already favorably known as a vivid narrator, and here he does justice to himself in giving all the thrilling exploits of hunter life. "It is a book which will interact both old and young, and happy will be the irreside where it is read aloud."

FROM THE ÆGIS, WORCESTER, MASS.

"Capt. Reid stands to day without a rival for supremacy in the wild, dashing and yet improving literature of the hunting ground."

FROM THE TRIBUNE, DETROIT, MICH.

The 'Hunters Feast,' in our opinion, is one of the most thrilling and vivid pictures he has yet drawn. Beside its deeply exciting character, it contains much useful information in regard to the habits of the various animals which inhabit our Western wilds." This is one of the few books which will pay a dividend on the

RVING'S WASHINGTON-

LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

By Washington Inving.

Of the octavo edition, (published by subscription only) volumes I and I are now ready, each containing about 500 pages, elegantly printed with new pich type, on fine paper. Subscription price per vol. in cloth, $2; sheep extra, $2.30; half calf extra, $4.25; calf extra, $4.2

The second volume contains Peales's Pertrait of Washington (the earliest) at the age of 40, with maps and plans.

The third volume will contain an engraving from Houdon's statue of Washington at Rickmond, and a splendid engraving carefully copied from Stuart's original picture of Washington.

The third volume will contain an engraving from Hondon's statue of Washington at Richmond, and a splendid engraving carefully copied from Staat's enginal picture of Washington. In the Boston Athenaum.

""The cheaper edition in 12mo, will be issued as soon as the whole work is complete. This will be in smaller type, and will not countain the portraits or larger maps.

N. B.—No time will be lost in issuing the work complete; the delay to far has been unavoidable, in order to enable the distinguished author to introduce new matter, and to trender it, in all respects worthy of the confidence and the generous reception so universally given to the first volume. No intelligent reader, it is presumed, will be distatished or impatient at a few weaks delay in a work so important, when the time is occupied for the receiver's benefit.

"The caccution of this volume certainly justifies the commendations with which we welcomed its predecessor. Mr. Irving's style, it is almost superfluous to observe, is as well adapted to historical composition as to essay writing. In the present work, thus far, it is more remarkable for its quiet and natural flow than for the splendid embellishments in the use of which he is such an acknowledged master. It has the familiar tone of society rather than the statelinese of flormal history. Combining the details of biography with the charms of dewription, his narrative presents an itresistible fascination, while it can scarcely be read without inspiring a fresh reverence for the Father of his Country."

"It was peculiarly fitting that the brightest name in history should have put in requisition for its commemoration, one of the most gifted and accomplished sons of literature. Washington Irving, whose literary fame scarcely know a bound, has for its and years been occupied upon this work, the first volume of which we have now the pleasure to announce. It has been enchantment to everything it touches, if would still have been justify regarded as a bright gem in our literature. [Puritian Recorder. "

THE WIDOW BEDOTT PAPERS

Is still selling with unabated rapidity. The admirers of her

"Papers" are running wild—read the following:
An Editor away in Wisconsin thus uses them to express his appreciation of the WIDOW BEDOTT PAPERS:
SONG OF HOW-THE-WIDOW.
Should you ask me how do Widows
Weave their spell of fascination—
Gain the hearts of second husbands
With the help of sidelong glances.
Caps of starched and crimped cambric,
And the runsic of sweet mosnings
O'er the virtues of the 'leat one'— Of the husband whose good fortune
Took him for beyond their tougue-reach,
Took him to that heaven of silence
Where their tongues no more could reach him?
I should answer—I should tell you—
Unto me it was mysterious;
'Twas a theme of endiess wonder,
Most amaing—most astounding—
Far beyond the grasp of logic,
Or the flight of speculation,
How a man possessed of devils),
How a man possessed of devils),
How a man enjoying freedom,
For could sacrifice his larchkey,
And the bliss thereto pertaining
To the keeping of a Widow—
To a buried man's remainder,
"Twas mysterious"—mark the pass tenso:

But he cannot are ren uncertainty.
And he can hinated loudly alorious,
And cleared the 'Widow' glorious,
So we two became uproxirous.
And the landlady, whose visage
Is with printence pinched and puckered,
Though she tried to choke her laughtet,
Up it bubbled, ringing, guehing,
Rising, shrieking into tremors

Into marriage, where he perished! FOURTEENTH EDITION READY THIS DAY, And for sale by all Booksellers and News Agents.

It is agreed by friends and foes of Mr. Oreeley that no more ably, entertainingly and instructively written biography has ever made its appearance in America. Every one who has any desire for a familiar acquaintance with the famous New-York Editor, should read Mr. Parton's book, and he will know Mr. Greeley as well as though he had been "brought up in the same town."
